YOUNG MAN WAS DROWNED IN OGBURN'S POND YESTERDAY

C. J. Finley, Jr., Met Fatal Accident While Swimming--Body Brought Here And Prepared For Burial--Details of the Deploable Occurrence.

Cassius J. Finley, Jr., aged 18, was drowned in Ogburn's pond, five miles north of Summerfield, yesterday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock. After the accident it required a search of two hours to recover the body and the remains did not reach Greensboro until this last night.

Yesterday morning young Finley in company with Lowry Stafford, Clem Boren and Cleo Davis, went out to enjoy a few days on a camping expedition near the pond, all buoyant over the thoughts of a good time which seemed to be awaiting them. It was a sad and sorrowful party that wended its way homeward last night.

According to the statement of his companions Finley, Davis and Boren were out in a boat when they overturned in four foot water. They laughingly pushed the boat to the shore and Boren and Davis scrambled out. Finley remarked that inasmuch as his clothing was wet he believed he would take a swim. Accordingly he started out and swam around, despite protests from his companions, who urged him to come ashore. He gradually left the bank and as soon as he struck the main channel of the stream, about 25 feet from the bank he began struggling. His companions, Boren and Davis, young Stafford being in the tent half a mile away, at once started to the rescue, but he had gone under the second time before they reached him. He went under the third time just as they reached him and he came near pulling them under also. The alarm was at once given and a number of people assisted in the work of recovering the body, which was recovered at 7:30. Young Finley's watch stopped at 20 minutes to 6 and the accident occurred shortly before.

A member of the party while the search for the body was being made had telephoned the news to Greensboro and several automobiles at once left for the scene and brought Messrs. Boren and Davis to town late last night. O. C. Klingman, who happened to be in that section of the county, heard of the accident and went to the scene and brought the remains of Finley, accompanied by Stafford, to the city. The remains were taken to the undertaking parlors of E. Poole and prepared for burial.

While the unfortunate young man had lived in Greensboro but a short while he was quite popular and had many friends. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Cassius J. Finley. Mr. Finley being the contractor who has had charge of the oiling of the streets of the city. His son was his assistant and had been left here to complete some work while Mr. Finley was in Charlotte looking after some work there. As soon as the news of his death reached the city his parents in Charlotte were notified by wire of the sad occurrence and they reached the city early this morning. Arrangements for the burial of their son were not definitely made by Mr. and Mrs. Finley last night but it is probable that the remains will be interred here, temporarily, on Thursday.

EVIDENCE OF HINES WAS REPUDIATED

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—A grueling cross-examination was given today at the Lorimer hearing to Isaac Baker, of Chicago, a buyer for the Edward Hines Lumber Company, when in his testimony he repudiated almost verbatim the two conversations testified to by Hines, in which he had talked of the Lorimer election fund.

Donald Franke, a cigar stand employee at the Union Lake Club, testified that he had heard Hines remark the day Lorimer was elected that he (Hines) had elected the senator. It was at this stand that Herman Hepler had a conversation with Hines, Hepler testifying that Hines had told him that he personally was responsible for the election of Lorimer. Franke said that Lorimer said "I have elected Lorimer, our next senator."

FELONIOUS ASSAULT IS NOW CHARGED

This Charge Made by Grand Jury Against New York Show Girls.

Special to Telegram.

New York, July 18.—The grand jury today indicted Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad for felonious assault on W. E. D. Stokes, the millionaire hotel proprietor, who they shot in their apartments in the Varuna. Only two witnesses were heard by the grand jury, Stokes and Detective James McCormick. They took an hour to give their testimony, Stokes using 45 minutes to recite his testimony, the same as given in the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Freshel.

Steamer Sunk.

Special to Telegram.

Detroit, July 18.—The steamship Tampa, owned by Henry Wismar, Jr., of Detroit, was sunk when the steel freighter, John W. Gates, struck it at the dock of the Ontario Asphalt Company above Walkerville today. All the crew miraculously escaped, but lost all their belongings. The Gates was not damaged.

SUIT INSTITUTED AGAINST THE BIG FOUR RAILROAD CO.

Charged With Violating the Federal Nine Hour Law.

Special to Telegram.

Columbus, Ohio, July 18.—District Attorney McPherson, acting under orders from Attorney General Wickersham today filed suit in the United States District Court against the Big Four Railroad Company for $5,000, alleging violations of the federal nine hour law. There are ten different causes of action. The charges are that the company forced two employees to work more than nine hours for five days. The maximum penalty is $500 for each offense.

Stimson in Panama.

Special to Telegram.

Panama, July 18.—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, has made a fair examination of the canal works. He inspected Culebra cut yesterday, Gatun dam and a portion of the railroad today. A large reception followed, given by President Arosemena, of Panama.

Knockout Brown Won.

Special to Telegram.

Albany, N. Y., July 18.—Eddie Kenny, of Chicago, was knocked out tonight by Knockout Brown in the second round of a scheduled 10-round bout at the Knickerbocker club. Brown made a chopping block of the Chicago boy, pounding him from one side of the ring to the other. A left hook to the stomach and jaw sent Kenny to the graveyard.

No Prize For Atwood.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—The Washington Chamber of Commerce today held a meeting to consider the giving of a prize to Harry N. Atwood for his flight to this city. It was decided that in giving Mr. Atwood a reception and dinner the chamber had done its full duty.

Clarence S. Darrow, Noted Labor Attorney, Says He Will Retire After Finishing McNamara Defense.

Photos by American Press Association.

CLARENCE S. DARROW.

Clarence S. Darrow, the Chicago attorney who has been engaged as chief counsel for the defense in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting case, has announced that when he is through with this trial he will retire from the practice of law and devote his future to lecturing and literary work. Mr. Darrow hesitated when asked to take up the defense of J. J. McNamara and the other accused men, saying that he hardly felt physically able to do the work that would be involved, but the labor union leaders, remembering how successfully Darrow had defended Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone of the Western Federation of Miners, insisted that he aid them, and he consented.

HEYBURN

Gets Threatening Letters as Result of His Tirade Against Confederate Cause.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—Because Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, in the Senate the other day in a speech against the retention of James Jones, former slave of Jefferson Davis, on the payroll of the Senate, said harsh things about the Confederate cause that were not relished by some friendly to that cause he is getting threatening letters. He caused a stir on the floor of the Senate today by saying that he was getting threatening letters from people, who wrote they were coming to Washington and destroy his pictures and take his life.

Senator Heyburn was led into further fighting over the Civil War by a bill which Senator Williams, of Missouri, got taken up against the objection of the Idaho senator. The bill provides for an appropriation for a monument to Confederate sailors in the Vicksburg National park. Senator Heyburn said that he had been misquoted in his former speech and he took occasion to lambast the newspapers. He then made a tirade against the Confederacy and criticized the idea of giving federal money to commemorate the memory of those who had sought to destroy the union.

Senator Bob Taylor took the floor and made an eloquent speech in favor of the South and appealed for the construction of the monument, which he said was the best way to wipe out sectionalism. The Senate adjourned without taking action on the bill.

Surplus in P. O. Department.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—There was a postal surplus of $2,400,000 on March 31 at the close of the first three quarters of the fiscal year, for the first time in the history of the postoffice department. Postmaster General Hitchcock said that a conservative estimate for the year will amount to over $3,000,000. On previous years the department showed a deficit of over $2,000,000.

Bandit Fatally Shot.

Special to Telegram.

Belle Plaine, Iowa, July 18.—A bandit was fatally shot today when he attempted to hold up the Chicago and Northwestern passenger train, No. 8, Chicago to Omaha. The attempted hold-up was made between Pana City and here.

SEABOARD RAILROAD SPENDING LARGE SUMS IN WILMINGTON

Authorizes Expenditure of $400,000 for Improvements--City Considers Paving.

Special to Telegram.

Wilmington, July 18.—Manifesting in a most substantial way its confidence in the future of Wilmington, the directors of the Seaboard Air Line at a recent meeting in New York authorized an expenditure of $200,000 for still further improvements at Wilmington, the amount being immediately available. All told this will make about $400,000 spent by the Seaboard in the enlargement and improvement of its terminals at this port within the past three years. The improvements to be made out of this latest appropriation include a fifth large storage warehouse, approximately 100x450 feet in size; the construction of another and a larger slip for docking vessels with cargoes; the re-arrangement and enlargement of its freight yards; the building of a substantial round house and to include the cost of the large and more eligibly located freight depot, work upon which has been under way for some time.

Tomorrow afternoon the City Council will hold a meeting for the purpose of determining the kind of paving to be used on Front street and then to award the contract for the work according to the bids which were opened Saturday. Front street, one of the main thoroughfares of the city, is to be improved from the union station to the north side of Castle street, and will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000 regardless of the kind of paving used. The Council is expected to hold a meeting in a few days to consider the question of installing a municipal sewerage system. The question to be decided is whether or not the existing plant will be purchased, and if so, at what price. No matter yet before the body is of such far-reaching importance and the final action is awaited with interest.

The regular meeting of the Sunday School Convention of the Wilmington Baptist Association will be held at the Atkinson Baptist church next week, convening on Friday and continuing in session through Sunday. The attendance is expected to be large and delegates will go from practically every church in the association. The sermon will be preached by Rev. R. E. Peale, of Burgaw, Friday morning at 11 o'clock and an attractive program has been arranged for all the other sessions as well.

RYAN

Found in New York and Notified to Appear Before Controller Bay Committee.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—When the House Committee investigating the Controller Bay scandal met today it learned from Charles Baycon how the Guggenheim syndicate squeezed Don Carr, special assistant to the secretary of the interior under both Ballinger and Fisher, and secured his retirement from his position.

The retirement of Carr is highly interesting at this juncture as he was one of the inner supporters of Ballinger during the famous Ballinger-Pinchot controversy. Dick Ryan was today located in New York and ordered to appear before the investigating committee. Ryan, the alleged agent of the Guggenheims and the friends of Charles P. Taft and the President, has been maintaining a silence that could be heard over a long distance phone since the investigation began. He has not said a word and has not entered a protest against the accusation lodged against him. His reappearance is, of course, the chief center of gossip as he is the author of the reputed letter to Dick Ballinger, in which the name of Charles P. Taft was connected with the Controller Bay grab. He was found by the officer at the Wolcott Hotel in New York. Ryan's jaw dropped when served with the subpoena, but he promised to be in Washington and appear before the committee Thursday.

Receiver of Worth Qualifies.

Special to Telegram.

Wilmington, July 18.—Following a judgment in the Federal Court for about thirty thousand dollars, given against William E. Worth, a prominent business man of this city in favor of the Knickerbocker Trust Company and the failure in supplemental proceedings to divulge any property to speak of, Judge Connor has named Marsden Bellamy, Jr., an attorney of this city, receiver and he qualified today. Judgment was given for failure to pay for stock in Rockingham Power Company. Certain property of Mr. Worth seized under execution some time ago will soon be sold.

will be preached by Rev. R. E. Peale, of Burgaw, Friday morning at 11 o'clock and an attractive program has been arranged for all the other sessions as well.

PRESIDENT OF SUGAR TRUST ON THE STAND

Washington Thomas Heard By Investigating Committee Yesterday.

Special to Telegram.

New York, July 18.—Further details of the fight between the American Sugar Refining Company and its rivals were revealed at the government investigation of the so-called sugar trust here today. Washington B. Thomas, president of the American Sugar Refining Company, was the first witness. After reviewing the various offices he has held with the company he said that his father had sold the Standard Sugar Refining Company, of Boston, to the American Sugar Refining Company in 1897. He admitted that the company had bought out rival concerns and closed them up. He said that the trust owned much stock in the National Sugar Refining Company.

When asked regarding the end of the sugar war between the Havermeyers and Sprackles he said that a compromise was effected because each side was tired of fighting and losing money.

DR. W. W. WILEY ANSWERS CHARGES

Secretary Wilson Has Doctor's Papers--no Decision Expected For Several Days.

Washington, July 18.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley's answer to the charges made against him by the department of agriculture's personnel board, was presented to the President today. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson received the papers from Dr. Wiley before he left the department for the regular meeting. He had no time to read them before the cabinet session and declared he would not be able to make a recommendation today.

The outline of Wiley's defense is not known by Wilson and was not disclosed at the White House. Attorney General Wickersham is out of the city. The case was discussed informally by the cabinet this morning.

No announcement as to when the President will dispose of the case is forthcoming. It is probable he will not be able to dispose of it for several days.

Wickersham speaks tomorrow at Duluth, Minn., and while undoubtedly Taft had gone over the case with him, before he left the city, it is believed the President would wish Wickersham to read Wiley's answer. Wickersham returns before Friday. The President goes Friday afternoon to Manassas, Virginia, to attend the blue and gray re-union. Saturday he leaves for Beverly to spend the week end with Mrs. Taft. Unless he can settle the case Friday morning or later Friday night, it is possible it will go over until next Tuesday when he expects to return to Washington from Beverly.

Officers and Crew Rescued.

Special to Telegram.

New York, July 18.—Twelve men, comprising the officers and crew of the Russian steamer Lendig were rescued in mid-ocean after they had been delayed 25 days and were facing death from hunger and thirst by the Red Star steamer Kronland, which arrived here today. The steamer was stocked with provisions and fresh water from the liner.

County Auditor Abbott is busy comparing the tax abstracts returned by the township assessors with the tax books of last year. By doing this a good deal of unlisted property is placed on the books, the assessors not having any means of knowing whether a property owner lists everything or not. To do this requires a good deal of time for after finding that a piece of property was not listed the auditor has to ascertain from the records whether the particular piece of property was transferred during the year and if so was it listed under the name of the new owner.

While but few of the townships have been gone over about $30,000 worth of unlisted property has been placed on the books and it is believed that more than $100,000 will be picked up in this manner. In Washington alone something like $15,000 was picked up.

While the matter has not yet been decided upon it is possible that the State and county tax this year will be 81 cents instead of 79 cents as heretofore. This, if the raise is made, will be because of the fact that the State has increased the State tax from 43 to 45 cents. Heretofore the county has been getting 36 cents on the $100 valuation, but unless the raise is made to 81 cents the county will get but 34 cents this year.

It will be several months before one can tell the exact gains made by the county during the year as the corporations are taxed direct by the Corporation Commission and the reports sent back to the county to be entered up in the tax books, and this will require several months. However, it is thought that the corporation assessment will be about what it was last year.

While the fact is unknown to many people it is nevertheless true that last year the people living inside the corporate limits of the city of Greensboro contributed no less than $14,056 towards the expenses of the schools outside the city, according to the records on file in the office of County Auditor Abbott.

To make this fact clear it should be stated that the valuation inside the city was about $9,000,000 and the school tax from this was $16,200. There were 1,500 pupils inside the city and these added $4,500 to the amount. Lastly the city clerk paid to the school fund the sum of $3,856 in fines, forfeitures and penalties. This totaled $24,556. From this amount the county school fund paid to the city $10,500 as its proportionate part of the county school funds, based on the per capita of $2.50 per school child. This left a balance of $14,056 which went to the support of schools outside the city.

RUCKER IS CONFIDENT OF AGREEMENT

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—That compromises will be reached by which the House will be able to eventually agree to the direct election of senators and the campaign publicity bills is the opinion of Representative Rucker, of Missouri. He stated that he thought the House would agree to the bills as passed by the Senate with a few minor amendments that would not affect the bills as passed by the upper branch of Congress.

Wants to Meet Johnson.

Special to Telegram.

New York, July 18.—Billy Tapke, the middle weight champion of the world, returned from Australia and Europe today to visit his home. Tapke told of a new white hope he had met in London. The coming youngster is Fred Strawdike. He is not yet 21 and weighs over 200 pounds. Tapke says Strawdike is anxious to get a match with Jack Johnson.

Condition of Gates Improved.

Special to Telegram.

Paris, July 18.—Physicians state that John W. Gates is holding his own and that his condition is gratifying. Physicians in the earlier part of the day were somewhat alarmed at his symptoms and heart stimulants were used with success.

THE CLEANNESS OF GERMANY IS IMPRESSIVE.

J. Ogden Armour, who recently returned to this country from a tour of Germany, was especially impressed with the cleanliness of Germany and with the fact that the streets of the cities and towns are kept perfectly clean. From the standpoint of being well kept, Mr.
Armour thinks that the average place in Germany is a "city beautiful." Presumably, he did not discover how it was done, as he had nothing to say about the sanitary methods employed in Germany,
but the results were sufficiently striking to deeply impress him. In speaking of this he said:

"There is a very evident reason for Berlin's beautiful condition. It is not merely by accident that Berlin, in spite of its marvelous growth of the last few decades, is such a beautiful city. It is because every detail and every effect has been carefully thought out and planned.
"Orders have come from a source able to carry them out that the city shall be kept clean, and you can hardly find a speck of dust even in the out-of-the-way corners. The street paving is kept in perfect condition, and as soon as any spot shows the slightest signs of becoming rough it is repaired. Chicagoans will be able to make the contrast without further explanation.

"I think the cleanliness of all Germany
is the fact that struck me most, and it has impressed other Americans as much as it did me. The smaller towns are just as well kept as is Berlin. The municipal administrations are able to accomplish results. The city officials and the people, too, seem to take great pride in keeping up the appearance of their city."

It will be noted that Mr. Armour says
the city officials of German municipalities and the people work together to obtain satisfactory sanitary conditions and to beautify their towns. This is a pointer for the people of this country.
Too often in the United States it is found that city officials, even those whose specific duties connect them with this class of work, are neglectful of sanitary conditions, do not strive to have a clean city, do not appear to be interested in the faithful discharge of their duties. Again, it is often found that the officials get no sort of encouragement or co-operation from the people. As a matter of course, the result of this state of affairs is an ugly, dirty, unsanitary city or town. Mr. Armour, also, noted the pride German officials take in their work
and the town pride of the urban population, and he no doubt found that this was the basis of the good work which has been accomplished in that country
in making the cities and towns beautiful and in keeping them clean. Here is the lesson for Americans. Pride in their work and interest in it among officials,
and the people co-operating with the officials in their efforts. By this plan results can be accomplished.

THE INFLUENCE OF GUILFORD COUNTY'S GOOD ROADS.

Over in Catawba county they are still talking about the improved highways of Guilford. The farmers who were brought here by the Catawba News continue to spread the information they obtained
on that trip and, as The Telegram predicted at the time, their efforts are making an impression on the people of that county. The Catawba farmers say that they would not exchange their county for Guilford, but admit that Guilford's roads are unsurpassed, and say that Catawba county should have roads just as good. The good roads movement is rising to such heights over there that the Catawba News wants to bring a train load of the people to Greensboro and show them the roads of this county. The News says in regard to this matter:

"The cause of good roads can be advanced more than one might think by sending that train load of farmers to Guilford county. It is too good an idea to be allowed to drop. Every good road man in the county ought to push it along. We are sure that ample funds can be secured to carry a special train load to Greensboro free of cost to the farmers. Every mother's son of them will come back to Catawba a good roads crank. They couldn't help being such.
No normal man can go to Guilford county, see the roads and learn from the people how the roads were built, without being thoroughly convinced that Catawba ought to get right down to it and do likewise."

Dr. Wiley's enemies are on the move,
but it is not believed they will be able to remove the Doctor.

Senator Bailey was once regarded as among the ablest men in the Senate.
That was before he directed all his talent to the job of fixing excuses for disagreeing with his party.

Governor and Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia was born in Newton, this State, September 2, 1855. Envious South Carolinians and Virginians may now proceed to say the meanest things they can think of.

The name of the Republican candidate for Governor in Kentucky is O'Rear. His name will furnish material for paragraphs of Democratic newspapers, and the chances are that in this respect he will not bring up the rear, as he is likely to do when the votes are counted.

Somebody suggests Alton B. Parker as being "available" for the Democratic nomination for President next year.
Doubtless Mr. Parker can secure the support of the Richmond Times Dispatch.

It ought not to be difficult to induce some Georgian to accept that Senatorship until next December, if Governor Smith persists in refusing to take the job until that time. Georgians, like the people of other States, are averse to holding offices for short terms. They want long terms and lots of them; but if long terms are not available, they will accept short ones.

Senator Simmons' contention that Chairman Eller, his assistant, Mr. Maxwell, or any other number of men in North Carolina could change a plank in the national platform of the Democratic party is ridiculous. The humblest voter in the party ranks knows better than that, and is aware that the Democratic platform which Senator Simmons helped to frame (at the time when he failed to utter any protest whatever against the lumber plank) stands as the expressed will of the party until it is changed by the next regular national convention. Senator Simmons does not claim that he went before the people of this State and told them that his position on the lumber matter was not in accord with the party platform. So the Senator is left without a leg to stand on
in his efforts to frame an excuse for his failure to abide by the platform declaration in regard to lumber.

The Winston-Salem Journal expresses the opinion that Senator Overman's
time will come when he offers for re-election. If Senator Overman has been unfaithful to the trust committed to him by the people it will be but simple justice for his "time to come" when he offers for re-election. The United States Senator who fails to keep his promises to the people should certainly not be given
another chance to play them false.
The same thing is true of party platforms as it is of the personal promises of a candidate. The man who is elected on the specific declarations of a party platform should stand on the platform
and support the principles and policies declared for in the platform. If the Winston-Salem Journal means to intimate that Senator Overman has not kept his personal promises or his party's promises to the people, his "time" cannot come too soon for the good of the State, the nation and the Democratic party.

Across the Yadkin Railroad Talk.
The promoters of the Raleigh & Charlotte Railroad held a meeting in Albermarle Friday. At this meeting they discussed plans for getting the road underway, and while they would give out
nothing for publication, The Chronicle

has learned that they are considering a proposition to run the road from Albermarle to Concord instead of to Charlotte.
They are to meet again in Greensboro
on July 27, when the talk will be resumed. The Chronicle some weeks ago gave the route of this proposed road. It would almost parallel the Durham & Charlotte and it would seem the proper thing to do would be to pick up this road at Mt.
Gilead. We understand that the Durham & Charlotte management has made the Raleigh & Charlotte people an offer.
In just what light this offer has been considered, we have not been informed.
But one thing seems certain. Whatever railroad project from Charlotte to Norwood or Albemarle, or both, is advanced,
must get the key held by the Mt. Gilead connection, already established, and needing only the crossing of the Yadkin and the hills. These have to be crossed in any event, and form an obstacle to be encountered by every railroad projected in that territory.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Business and the Outlook.

Foreign trade returns and agricultural prospects are gratifying; bank exchanges are keeping up to high figures, and after railroad gross earnings have for several weeks run below those of last years,
they are now running above—not much,
but a little gain is better than a loss.

For the first time in our history our exports in one year have exceeded two billion dollars, and our total foreign trade has exceeded three and a half billions. The excess of exports over imports is larger than in any year of the past decade except one, and as we are continually seeking new capital in Europe, this large trade credit is a matter of importance.

The official report on grain crops was given out on Monday, and while it indicated a serious deterioration during June the important fact is that after all the hot dry weather of June the promise of the wheat crop is for 7,000,000 bushels
more than last year, and for the corn crop a yield only exceeded last year.

The report, therefore, is decidedly encouraging. B. W. Snow, who has some reputation as a crop expert, issued a bulletin on Friday that all grains had been impaired since the first of the month.
This is very doubtful. Corn prices advanced somewhat last week, but wheat declined. A week ago yesterday there were heavy rains throughout the greater part of the West, Northwest, and Southwest, and a couple of days earlier than that there were substantial rains in four leading States of the corn belt. It is very hard to believe that these rains have not checked the deterioration and caused some improvement. Winter wheat is pretty much all in last month's spring wheat suffered in June
more than any other crop except oats,
but on the first of July promised a substantial increase over the actual harvest of last year. Corn has hardly reached its most critical stage yet, and while it may be killed by drought, of course, it is a crop that stands a good deal of hot, dry weather. Oats will be much below
the last two crops, but probably better than the two crops preceding those.

Bank clearings last week were not materially different from those of the previous week and the corresponding week of last year. An aggregate of more than three billion dollars indicates a pretty substantial volume of trade. Railroad gross earnings for June indicated a gain over last year of 0.56 per cent. But that is better than the reports for the individual weeks indicated. For the first week of July the gain over last year was 2.34 per cent., and while this is small, it is a turn in the right direction,
and the number of roads reporting for the week was unusually small.

The steel companies are taking less time than usual at this season for inventories and repairs. The mills of Pittsburg and Youngstown districts are now operating close to three-quarters of their capacity. Large orders are coming forward. Contracts were placed in Chicago for 13,000 tons of rails and 20, 000 tons of structural material. About 13,000 tons of structural material was contracted for in New York. The Italian government has awarded to two American concerns a contract for over 4,000 tons of armor. In some markets the price of pig has weakened a little, but it is believed that the production of merchant furnaces is now below consumption. The Iron Trade Review reports heavier inquiries for basic pig than at any previous time for 18 months.

Cotton speculation has been fairly active, and cash prices have hardly changed. Conditions have scarcely changed in the Boston and Philadelphia wool markets. Sales were light in both,
and here the market was weak. Trading in cotton goods showed no material improvement in volume or character. Many of the buyers declare that they will not be ready to operate before August. New lines of men's carded wools for next spring, mostly of the cheaper sorts, were opened, and the response of buyers was satisfactory. New prices are probably 5 to 10 per cent below those of last year.
Some orders for serges were given at 5 to 7 1/2 cents less than last year. Except for some duplicate orders, dress goods were dull. There is a gradual increase in boot and shoe business. The leather market is strong, with special firmness in sole leather.

The tendency of wheat prices has been lower on indications that the crop will be large, and on Friday the Chicago

market slumped three cents as an incident of the affairs of the Peavey Grain Company. Corn has advanced on weather reports. Lard has been dull and steady.

MARS A WONDER.

Had Life of Adventure Before Taking to Air Machines.

James C. Mars—"Bud" among the bird-men—is a dark, wiry little man who has come to 28 years despite a professional career that included parachute
jumping, diving from 100-foot ladders
into two feet of water, bareback riding in a circus and dare-devil stunts with a biplane. As an aviator he ranks with America's best, and with the exception of Eugene Ely is the best known flyer
of the Curtiss school.

He began hustling for himself nine years ago as a newsboy in Chicago.

Capt. Thomas S. Baldwin, the veteran aeronaut and aviator, taught him the game of parachute jumping when he was 15 years old. That was too dull, so "Bud" joined a circus and turned somersaults on the broad back of a ring horse. One day the lion tamer disappeared and Mars volunteered for the job. He cracked the whip over the collection of lions for a while and then found another game that seemed more exciting—high diving. The man who had been doing the stunt made a misuse one day which ended his life. After several months high diving palled on the young man and he went back to ballooning. It 1907, at the Jamestown Exposition, he rode the big kite designed by Israel Ludlow.

He was at Los Angeles in January, 1909, when he saw an aeroplane for the first time. As soon as he got back East
he showed up at Glen H. Curtiss' biplane factory at Hammondsport, N. Y., and told Curtiss he wanted a job as a flyer.
Curtiss took a fancy to him, straight-
way and in the next few days taught him how to navigate a heavier-than-air machine. Mars learned rapidly.

His most notable achievement was his trip around the world, from which he returned on June 18th last. Shortly after the Belmont Park meeting last fall, Mars, with Captain Baldwin, Tod Shriver and a staff of mechanics, showed at Norfolk, Denver, Phoenix and Stockton, then sailed for Japan. Captain Baldwin turned back at Japan, but Mars swung on around the globe. He set an altitude record of 6,500 feet for the Japanese aviators to go after and taught a number of Japanese army men how to fly. In China he scared thousands who fancied that new kind of dragon had leaped from the sun. Manila gave him a splendid reception.

Mars is an unassuming young man
who takes his aviation honors modestly
and is disinclined to talk much about himself. Glenn H. Curtiss regards him
as one of the most capable aeroplane pilots that have been developed. He is married and his wife invariably accompanies him to the flying meets. She has made many flights with him and is very proud of his success. They have no children.

Mars is a licensed pilot of the Aero Club of America, having won his papers
last summer at the Sheepshead Bay meeting. He is the eighth American flyer to win a license.—New York Sun.

Vacations Are Essential

(By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD)
It is impossible for the natural caretaker to avoid fulfilling the object of her being, and taking care; and the only remedy is for her supposed protector, or whoever it is, that is, that has the power
to do it, and to whom her life and brain
are valuable, or who feels a pity for the overworked, to force upon her, if she will not take it otherwise, a month's yearly separation from her family, and every one and everything connected with it.

She will come home from it a new creature, and even if she finds a little additional work waiting her hands, the strength of body and mind will make that work seem light, and it will pay in actual cost and comfort all out the most slenderly provided to try the experiment.

After one or two of these yearly vacations she will herself so feel the worth of them that she will dispense with things to display before the neighbors
for the sake of the healthy relaxation.
will do her utmost to arrange a cor-

will even come to think that if there is no other way of providing the outing,
the need of it should receive the attention of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

A Noble and Ignoble Courtship

(By FERDINAND C. IGLEHART.)

The contrast between the dutiful and undutiful daughter in "King Lear" is not more marked than that between the true and false lovers of Cordelia. She had been disinherited by her father, the king,
and he was in the act of giving her in marriage to one of two suitors—the Duke of Burgundy and the King of France. He turns to the first and says:

"My lord of Burgundy,
We first address toward you, who with
this king,
Hath rival'd for our daughter. What, in the least,
Will you require in present dower with
her,
Or cease your quest of love? Sir, there
she stands;

If aught within that little seeming substance,
Or all of it with our displeasure pieced,
And nothing more, may fitly like your grace,
She's there, and she is yours."

As the duke hesitates and does not answer, Lear continues:
"Will you, with those infirmities she owes,
Unfriended, new-adapted to our hate,
Dower'd with our curse and stranger'd
with our oath,
Take her or leave her?"

The suitor then declines, and the father says:
"Then leave her, sir; for by the power
that made me,
I tell you all her wealth."

Turning to the King of France, he poured a torrent of abuse upon his daughter, telling him she was unworthy
of him and expecting that, like the Duke of Burgundy, he would reject her.

The king asked the enraged father
what crime the daughter had committed to thus excite his anger, and when he learned that her sole offense had been a modest, instead of a profuse expression of the love she bore him, he said:
"Fairer Cordelia, thou art most rich,
being poor;

Most choice, forsaken; and most lov'd
despised!
Thee and this virtues here I seize upon.
Be it lawful, I take up what's cast away.
Gods! Gods! 'tis strange that from their coldst neglect
My love should kindle to inflam'd respect.
Thou dowierless daughter, king, thrown to
my chance,
Is queen of us, of ours, and our fair
France;

Not all the dukes of watrish Burgundy
Can buy this unpriz'd precious maid of me,
Bid them farewell, Cordelia, though un-
kind;
Thou lovest here a better where to find."

The King of France loved her when she was rich and one of the heirs of the throne, and when her wealth and position
and power were lost he loved her still.

The Duke of Burgundy loved her when she was the favorite daughter of the king, but when she was disinherited
and penniless his affection for her vanished. The king loved her for what she was, the duke for what she had.

How many have been the mistakes and miseries of those who have contracted matrimonial alliances upon an estimate of cash, instead of character, in search of means instead of manhood, for wealth
instead of womanhood!
Wealth, properly employed, may give greater opportunity for reading, study,
travel and the practices of the finer arts,
or, if improperly employed, it may result in indolence, effeminacy, or vice.
Poverty may depress or degrade, or encourage self-dependence and supremacy.
Hence it is unsafe to pay much attention to accidents and incidents of life in the selection of a husband or wife. Whether there be wealth or poverty, exalted position or humble station, it is manhood and womanhood which tell.

What miseries and disasters have followed in the footsteps of the royal personages who have imitated the Duke of Burgundy in wedding wealth, rank and power in the place of manhood and womanhood! The Dukes of Burgundy have found their way to our shores in pretty good numbers; there is now and then a King of France who weds an American beauty for love, but there seems to be a greater number of noble-
men who are in search of the daughters of American millionaires for the money which they have. And some of the daughters of the rich are beguiled into marrying a title with the shell of a man thrown in, and the money bags and titles are fastened together, with no hearts between them. The man has gotten the gold, the woman the coat of arms, but love, manhood and womanhood
have been left out of the question.

While there are some sordid characters who imitate the duke, we believe the majority of the people of this country have the spirit of the king, in putting a just estimate on ability and character and in making their life plans
accordingly; in considering wealth, station and all other accidents of life as of secondary—as of trifling importance
when compared with real manhood and womanhood. No earthly circumstance,
however favorable, can add to the value of their Cordelia; no misfortune, however great, can take away from her any of her charms.

WEAR YOUR BEST

(By CARA REESE.)

When you have anything better to wear then do not go forth shabby. When you have anything prettier to wear, then do not attend the party looking like a scarescrow.

"Never don a ragged garment if you own a whole one of the kind. Treat your clothes and belongings after the manner of the manna in the wilderness.
Wear the nice, fresh, things while they are in fashion, and when you go forth to meet the public or to attend social functions see that you honor yourself
and others by appearing in as tasteful
and appropriate makeup as you are able to command.

This does not mean extravagance. It does not mean the doing away, with
"second best" nor the occasional reserving of an expensive outfit for a special and more conspicuous occasion. But it does mean that you should wear your fashionable outfit while it is fashionable.
You should don your pretty garments
and ribbons and laces while they are pretty and not wait until they are dis-colored or grow grimy and wrinkled
through hoarding.

There are some who hoard up the dainty
fol-de-rols in neckwear and lingerie which they receive on Christmas until these are out of date or grow musty in the wrappings, and all the while the soul of the owner fairly yearns and burns to put this same into personal use. There are others who lay away in lavender and scented bags the apparel secretly dedicated to "going a-visiting" and who never have traveled beyond the doorstep
in their lives. They deny their backs and their spirits the feel of fine quality
and the choice in raiment and delightful accessory.

Others store away the bits of cambric
and lace in the guise of handkerchiefs
ever looking forward to some social millennium when several dozen scented nose
wipes are supposedly to represent a status of society and preparedness. Indeed, there is sometimes the painful adding piecemeal to a trousseau while the prospective bride is a sweetheart in faded
ribbons and in shabby and out-of-date costumes. Wear a few of the pretty things beforehand.

Then there is the home body who makes "anything do" and who wears the plainest of undergarments thriftily patched and mended, nightgowns without ruffles, corset covers without ribbons and yet who has stacks of the newest and freshest as the result of her foraging and buying with the same zeal as her sisters.
She is of the timorous order, afraid that
the stock may run out and she be caught with nothing at command some bright
day when company comes to stay.

It is imaginary visits to be made, the imaginary vision of a dearth of supplies,
the imaginary belief in a more propitious
occasion, that cause so many to treat their clothes like salvation and creep on waiting a bit and putting off; the convenient season never arrives. It is a practice like the owner of the barrel of apples who commanded his children to select only the decayed fruit when they made a choice; decay it was from start to finish. Never be commonplace in appearance when you possess that which might make you look distinguished.

A BEAUTIFUL FACE

(By POLLY PAGET.)

However irregular or even ugly a person's features may be, the face cannot fail to be pleasant to look upon if only
there can be a kindly light in the eyes,
a gentle smile, and an expression of self-control about the lips. These things all combine to make a lovable face, and we feel when we see such a one that we would fain call the owner of it our friend.

More physical beauty has no such power over us. We know the old saying,
"Handsome is as handsome does," and that such beauty comes from expression
is the real index of a good and noble nature, for it is the impress of the thoughts and actions of years.

By expression we can make sure of the character. Truth will out, and sometimes a passing unguarded word or look will show a rascal where you least expect to find one, just as sometimes under a plain mask we catch the reflection of almost angelic beauty of heart and mind.

Contentment beams from the face of the perfectly self-possessed girl, and we can hardly help having a feeling of envy
as we see how radiantly happy she can be. She is unconscious of nerves, and is never troubled with shyness, nor the fear of doing the wrong thing. She is her own heroine, and her own applauding public.

That she is popular cannot be always said, but enveloped in her own self-confidence and self-approval she does not feel that need of popular approval.

Perhaps we melt, but never mind.
In future 'twill be heaven
To boast about how hot we were
The summer of '11.—N. Y. Sun.

age, ma?"

Woman's Friend

Nearly all women suffer at times from female ailments. Some women suffer more acutely and more constantly than others. But whether you have little pain or whether you suffer intensely, you should take Wine of Cardui and get relief.

Cardui is a safe, natural medicine, for women, prepared scientifically from harmless vegetable ingredients. It acts easily on the female organs and gives strength and tone to the whole system.

TAKE CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Mrs. Verna Wallace, of Sanger, Tex., tried Cardui. She writes: "Cardui has done more for me than I can describe. Last spring I was taken with female inflammation and consulted a doctor, but to no avail, so I took Cardui, and inside of three days, I was able to do my housework. Since then my trouble has never returned." Try it.

CLARK'S BOOM FOR PRESIDENT IS BEING RAPIDLY INFLATED

That is Opinion of Congressman Hammond, who Found Growing Clark Sentiment in Northwest—Senator Turner of Washington Expresses Similar Opinion.

(By RALPH M. WHITESIDE.)
Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—That Clark boom for the Presidency seems to have more life this hot weather than almost any other thing political around Washington. Hardly a day passes that something does not develop showing that the heart of the Democratic masses beats warm for the gallant Missourian.

For instance, Hon. Winfield Scott Hammond, the Minnesota Democrat who succeeds regularly in breaking into Congress, who has just been home to attend a conference of Democrats of the northwestern States, says:

"Speaking of politics and the sentiment of the great Northwest, I was much impressed with the applause which followed my reference to Speaker Champ Clark during my speech. I had referred to him as the wise and watchful minority leader in a Republican House, and as the vigilant Speaker of the House after the accession of our party to power. There was an immediate ovation when I mentioned the Speaker, and it was spontaneous as well as impressive. It clearly indicated to me that our Western States have been looking upon Champ Clark as a Presidential candidate. There was undoubtedly a strong sentiment for Clark among all the members of our St. Paul conference, and much of that sentiment was expressed in private conversation."

"It was the more encouraged by the renewed announcements of Mr. Bryan that he was not to be considered as a Presidential proposition next year, and he made it clear that he was very much in earnest."

"Hence the inclination toward Champ Clark, which with Bryan present seemed the more significant. Another member of the St. Paul conference given much attention was Governor Burke of North Dakota. There was frequent expression that if the next Democratic nominee for President should be taken from the East or near East, Governor Burke would be very much in line for the vice presidential nomination. Western Democrats have known Governor Burke and have admired him for some time back. He is a lawyer who has been elected the Democratic Governor of North Dakota three times, although it is a strong Republican State. Burke is what I designate a genuine Democrat, a reliable one, the sort of man and Democrat you can depend on no matter what happens."

"Of course, the Republican organization people in the State are for Taft, but it will be admitted among the strongest supporters of the President that there is much sentiment against him in his own party. It must not be overlooked that there is a large following for Senator La Follette in Minnesota and in the adjoining States. The La Follette sentiment is well understood and appreciated by the regular Republicans of the Taft organization, but they feel confident that they can tighten things up when it comes to the election of delegates, so that La Follette will not have a single vote from Minnesota."

"It cannot be denied that La Follette has some able men on his side in my State, but they cannot reach in a contest with the regular organization crowd which will be ably aided, no doubt, by the full power of the administration here in Washington, and we all know what that means when it comes to the actual contest.

"I can hardly admit that there is much actual enthusiasm for the President, but there is a general admission that he will have little trouble in securing renomination." Going a little further to the West, we have this opinion from former Senator Turner of Washington:

"There is a strong sentiment for Champ Clark as the coming Democratic candidate for President, and the Washington Democrats are giving him much thought and attention. You find, not only in my State, but throughout the West, an increasing admiration for the Speaker and a feeling that he would make a great campaign." Mr. Turner thinks La Follette will probably get Washington's vote in the Republican Convention.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, is having some hard things said about him, for sad to relate, in one of the hottest early summers Washington has known there is no lemonade in the Senate wing of the capitol, and this Kansas man is held largely to blame. For years past the Senate has done everything but swim in lemonade during the hot season. It has been supplied in the cloak rooms, the committee rooms and even in the private rooms of Senators. Not only lemonade, but all sorts of bottled mineral waters, with tons of ice to keep them cold. Senatorial throats could be lubricated with these harmless beverages at almost every turn and corner of the north wing.

The lemonade season, according to precedent, should have opened six weeks ago. But there is a wave of reform and the Senate is closed as tight as Mayor Gaynor thinks New York is on Sunday. There is not even a lemonade side-door. Plenty of plain ice water is to be had, and that is all.

There is a committee with the sounding title, "To Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate." This is the committee that used to supply the lemonade. It is likewise responsible for shutting it off. There is a story going around that the quashing of lemonade and mineral water privileges is saving the people of the United States $1,000 a month. Political wise men point to this as another indication that the Senate is undergoing fundamental changes and is breaking its rusty chains.

The five Senators who are responsible for the dry throats and husky oratory in the chamber are: Briggs of New Jersey, Dillingham of Vermont, Bristow of Kansas, Clarke of Arkansas, and Williams of Mississippi. Bristow is principally accused.

"Through its control of the purse the House of Representatives has the power to force the passage of its tariff revision bills, and should insist upon these measures even if it means absolutely blocking the wheels of the government," declares Judge Edgar H. Farrar, of New Orleans, president of the American Bar Association.

Judge Farrar is a free trader, in favor of abolishing all custom houses except such as are needed to collect taxes on imports of foreign liquors and cigars.

"It was one of the greatest calamities in the history of the country when the Supreme Court declared the income tax unconstitutional," said the Southern jurist. "I would favor an amendment to the constitution taking away from the States and lodging in the central gov-

WALL STREET MILDLY INTERESTED IN WORLD STEEL COMBINE

Otherwise, Summer Dullness Hangs Over Street—News From the Financial District of the Country's Metropolis.

(By PRESTON C. ADAMS.)
Special to Telegram.

New York, July 18.—Not even crop scares are able to stir the stock market out of its hot weather lethargy. As it has been too hot to eat any more than is necessary to keep body and soul together to wear any more clothes than the law compels or to do anything that can possibly be avoided, general business is dull and stagnant.

The big Brussels Steel Conference with the certainty as Wall Street regards it of an international steel trust which will make the American trust look like a "two bit" concern excites a languid interest and is perhaps talked about more than any other one thing. Just what effect this gentleman's agreement in the world's steel trade will have on the trust busting program in this country remains to be seen.

During the first six months of the current year, mining and other corporations in the United States have issued new securities to the grand total of $1,229,467,950, as compared with $1,048,431,950 last year, showing, therefore, an increase of $181,036,000. The railroads were wholly responsible for this increase, their offerings having reached $855,417,000, or $186,150,550 more than in the first half of 1910. Of this increase fully 50 per cent consisted of short-term notes.

Murmurs of discontent are again heard in the financial district against the occupation of a very important part of Broad street by the curb brokers. The New York Curb Market Association is now composed of approximately 240 members, the largest number in the history of the curb, and as the membership increases the space on Broad street occupied by the market extends and now covers a larger area than ever before to the great detriment of all kinds of traffic. In no other part of the city is any such occupancy of streets permitted and people are beginning to ask why such special and valuable privileges should be extended to a body of outside brokers who ought to have a regular meeting room, the same as any other body of brokers who deal in securities.

Since the controversy between the city authorities and the New York Stock Exchange in regard to the engraving of the last issue of New York City bonds, those securities have been dealt in on the curb. This is regarded as a sharp move on the part of the Curb Association to curry favor with Mayor Gaynor so as to continue the occupancy of a leading thoroughfare without paying any rent or taxes.

Formerly the curb market was a crude affair. Now it is a regular organization with officers, same as the New York Stock Exchange or Consolidated Board. Both of these institutions pay heavy taxes on real estate they occupy. Their real estate adds to the beauty of the financial district and does not interfere with traffic. The Curb Association occupies the street, interferes with traffic, has no real estate and pays no taxes. People are asking "Why this favoritism?"

The policing of New York financial institutions should be most thorough by and by. The National Bank examiners are arranging to co-operate to the fullest extent with the State examiners here as well as in Jersey. Not only so, but enment the sole right to lay and collect taxes on incomes and inheritances.

"The Democratic House was elected as the result of the popular revolution last year," he continued, "and it has a duty to the people to carry out the mandate of that election."

Judge Farrar said that while he does not approve the protective tariff system he is not in favor of radical measures abolishing that system under which a vast business has been built up. He advocates gradual reductions in tariff rates.

In his annual address before the American Bar Association which meets in Boston the latter part of August, Judge Farrar will discuss a number of problems of legislation now pending before the Congress and express his ideas upon the subject of reform of the Federal judicial system.

the Clearing House will shortly have a well-organized corps of examiners who will do their work in a way that should mean the prompt detection of weakness or worse. The ganking code of morals has improved greatly since ante-panic days. The banishing of Charles W. Morse to the penitentiary and the prosecution of other bankers have had a salutary influence, while the New York banking position has also been strengthened by the elimination of several weak institutions. Mergers of banks sometimes possess undesirable features, yet the taking over of a tottering concern by a strong one is not infrequently the preventive of trouble. With so many excellent institutions, including trust-worthy savings banks, it is unlikely that in New York the deposits in Government Savings Banks will reach a huge sum.

Industrial corporations happily are free from heavy maturing obligations during the next eighteen months. We showed sometime ago that the railroads were confronted with maturing bonds and notes aggregating upwards of $440,000,000 before the end of 1912. The industrial total is very much smaller; it does not reach $90,000,000. Short-term notes are responsible for fully half. For the whole of the current year the notes falling due just exceed $20,000,000, while for 1912 the figure is slightly in excess of $25,000,000. Maturing bonds this year foot up to $35,000,000, whereas next year the amount is very much smaller—less than $6,000,000, though this figure may be swelled later. Very few stock issues are now being paid for on the installment system, so that the way to clear for the raising of a good deal of new capital should monetary conditions prove favorable.

Plans for the consolidation of the Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron Co. and the Southern Iron Co., already agreed to and through which the Birmingham district will obtain the largest mineral holding company in the South, provide for the enlarging of steel mill and furnaces at Alabama City and Gadsden, Ala.

Joseph H. Headley, president of the Alabama Consolidated, says all the terms of the merger have been settled. It is understood that the Baltimore directors of the Alabama companies will be members of the Alabama Consolidated Coal, Iron & Steel Co., the new concern's board with Harrison S. Mathews of Birmingham, its president and the Hon. Cecil Greenfield, M. P., of London, England, chairman.

The new corporation will have $5,000,000 cash available immediately, the proceeds of the underwriting. It is the opinion of President Headley that the new interests in the Birmingham district will be as important as the United States Steel Corporation interests in the Tennessee Coal & Iron Co., inasmuch as the new concern will control more coal and ore lands than the Tennessee company. Financial interests in New York, Baltimore, Chicago, Boston, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Detroit, Montreal, London and Holland are back of the new corporation.

"We surely need not wonder that mist and all its phenomena have been made delightful to us, since our happiness as thinking beings must depend on our being content to accept only partial knowledge even in those matters which chiefly concern us. If we insist upon perfect intelligibility and complete declaration in every moral subject, we shall instantly fall into misery and unbelief. Our whole happiness and power of energetic action depend upon our being able to breathe and live in the cloud; content to see it opening here and closing there; rejoicing to catch, through the thinnest films of it, glimpses of stable and substantial things; but yet perceiving a nobleness even in the concealment, and rejoicing that the kindly veil is spread where the untempered light might have scorched us, or the infinite clearness wearied."—John Ruskin.

Russian Tyranny Unbearable.

Dr. Vinogradoff, the Oxford professor of jurisprudence, recently began a course of lectures at Moscow university, where he once filled the history chair, and has explained why he had to abandon this enterprise and how much of the trouble in Russian universities arises. "I personally considered it impossible to lecture in a room surrounded by policemen with loaded rifles, and so did many of my colleagues. When the Moscow university made representations to the government in the sense that it was impossible to have two sets of authorities—the academic authority and the police authority—and when the rector, the assistant rector, and the proctor resigned their administrative offices, they were dismissed from their professorships. Twenty-four other professors and lecturers then resigned."

How German Girls Learn.

How would an up-to-date American girl like the following hint from a German critic now in this country? "Why do not struggling country parsons with small salaries help themselves out by taking charge of city young women? In Germany it is the custom for a girl to pass a year between school and society in the country in the home of some clergyman who can oversee her reading, while his wife induces her into all the mystery of the housewifely arts. The plan has many advantages. It is more practical than your course in domestic science, for the pupil actually takes a hand in all the work of the household from the laundering to sausage making."

Free from the distractions of home or society, or even of the classroom, she can devote herself single minded to the business in hand. Her first timid experiments are ventured out of range of the jeers of brothers and sisters and of the mother's unconscious assumption that she is still a little girl. When she goes home it is in the full blush and dignity of housewifely completeness, a graduate into mature life.

The Easiest Way.

"They tell me that Burns eloped with an old flame."
"Yes, that's what he did."
"Well, that surely is a hot one! How did he do it?"
"The natural way—down the fire escape."—Judge.

"Hard as a Garfish" Slogan.

A woman looking over costly jewel cases in one of the most expensive of New York shops the other day was struck with the beautiful, ivory like finish of a number of them. "What are they made of?" she asked admiringly. "Garfish skin, madam," answered the salesman. "Garfish leather, we find, is very little known about outside of the trade and yet it has come to be of importance. It not only can be worked up to this polish, but it is wonderfully hard. They say certain tribes of Indians knew its secret and that among them it was used as armor, the tradition being that a breastplate of it would resist any tomahawk or arrow. It can be made now so that it will turn the edge of a knife or a spear."

Puzzle for German Police.

A curious obstacle has intervened to prevent the decapitation of a man who was recently sentenced to death at Posen, Germany, for murder. The condemned man called himself Jacob Kinale, and had the usual papers of identification made out in this name. Under it he had served several terms of imprisonment for theft, and no one doubted that it was his own name till after he had been adjudged to lose his head. It then came to the knowledge of the police that the real Jacob Kinale is at present farming in South Africa, where he is highly respected; and that his papers were stolen from him some years ago. Under German law, however, nobody can be executed till his identity has been properly established, and the authorities are completely at a loss as to the real name and parentage of their doomed captive. He, not unnaturally, steadily declines to provide them with the information that will enable them to proceed with the operation of cutting off his head.

Do You Read the WANT ADS?

Have you found out what interesting news is contained in the want page? There is a reason why want ads are interesting to everybody. Supply and demand create a market. The man who has an article which he has no further use for, with the assistance of a little want ad, can find readily the other man who is looking for just that article. On the other hand the man who is looking for some particular article can find the man who has it and who it perhaps has not occurred that he can sell it, thus by means of the want ad purchasers and sellers for small articles get together.

MRS. LEA MUCH BETTER.

Physician Declares Condition of Senator's Wife No Longer Critical.

Denver, Colo., July 18.—The wife of Senator Luke Lea, of Tennessee, brought here Friday by her husband because of fear that pneumonia would kill her in the moist climate of the East, has been improving every hour since her arrival. Her physician said that her improvement has been wonderful, and he no longer considers her condition critical. She will be able to get out within a week or ten days, he thinks.

Cotton Picking Begins.

San Antonio, Texas, July 18.—Cotton picking has begun all over the entire southwest section of Texas and indications are the crop will be greater than for several years. Several bales were placed on the market today. This early picking and ginning breaks the record of last year by nearly two weeks. Price paid was 13½ cents.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, La., July 18.—The map this morning showed more favorable conditions, heavy general rains in central and north Texas, good rains in Oklahoma, and scattered showers in the rest of the belt, but mostly light in the central belt except in Louisiana which also had a heavy rain.

Indications are for continued unsettled showery weather over the entire belt, with prospects for heaviest rains in the western half of Liverpool fully met the decline on our side and showed spot prices 22 down, sales 6,000. Cables mention as a feature the absence of manipulative support in the July-August position and also selling by the bull clique brokers.

A Texas traveling man writes: "These rains will start a new growth and improve prospects correspondingly, but owing to the previous unfavorable weather the final yield is still in doubt, the more so as insects are spreading. Their damage could become very great as there is a scarcity of poison material to protect the crops."

The heavy decline on 30 points in New York around the opening caused the first trade here to be at a decline of about 26 points. The market was quiet and did not receive the support expected after such a break. That the bear pressure and selling of new crops was mostly based on anticipation of a further decline in the summer positions in New York was evident from the fact that the selling of new crops was most aggressive whenever August in New York showed a fresh break.

New York led the decline today and our market followed largely on straddle operations, October selling to 12.13 in the second hour. A few considerations are: that the market is about one and a half cents down; that present prices are about one cent lower than last year; that supplies are the smallest in years; that short interest is general and that the present rainy spell is working toward a lateness of the crops and may impair prospects. Of course there is no bull opposition right now and bears have free sway, but bearing at this time of year has led to great surprises during the summer even in years of ultimate large yields.

HAYWARD & CLARK.

Government Weekly Weather Review.

Washington, D. C., July 18.—Cool weather prevailed over the greater portion of the cotton growing States. Mean temperatures were below normal except over extreme eastern and extreme western portions of the cotton region where temperature was about normal or slightly above. The greatest deficiency in temperature was 3 degrees at Galveston, Birmingham and Augusta. The greatest excess was 2 degrees at San Antonio. Mean temperatures ranged from 76 to 82 degrees over eastern, from 78 to 80 degrees over central and from 80 to 86 degrees over western portion of the cotton belt. The lowest mean temperature was 76 degrees at Atlanta and the highest 86 degrees at Del Rio, Texas. Precipitation occurred generally throughout the cotton growing States but the amounts were unevenly distributed. There was less than one inch of rainfall in several localities and there was less than half an inch over the western portion of east Texas. More than two inches of rain fell over considerable areas and there was more than four inches at a few stations in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Georgia.

Feverish.

AT THE OTTAWAY

Manager McCall, of the Ottaway Theatre, has arranged very attractive specials for Thursday and Friday of this week. On Thursday the Maccabees will be shown, and on Friday Faust will be the offering.

The picture entitled "The Maccabees" is reputed to be a very dramatic presentation of the story of the Maccabee family and their persecutions by the cruel King of Egypt. This persecution was caused by the jealous and unrequited love of Astarte, the Queen of Egypt, for Judas, one of the Maccabee family, and the scenes of this cruel romance are very vividly portrayed. 1t.

SIX HAVE NARROW ESCAPES WHEN BIG CAR TURNS TURTLE.

Smithfield, July 18.—J. E. Stagg, vice president of the Durham & Southern of Durham, his wife, three children, a maid and a chauffeur had narrow escape from death yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock when his seven-passenger Thomas flyer turned turtle on the Tallon hill, two miles west of here.

It is a clay hill and very sticky because of the rain. The car, running fifteen miles an hour, began to skid when the chauffeur tried to turn across the hill and the car slipped completely around and turned turtle in a big ditch, pinioning all under the car. The chauffeur crawled out, jacked up the car and helped the others out. Mr. Stagg's little daughter suffered a fracture of the collar-bone and was badly shaken up. The others were not injured more than a severe shakeup and scare.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, July 18.—The 1911 report of the Commissioner of Agriculture, W. A. Graham, is just from the printers and is the most voluminous and important the North Carolina department of agriculture has ever issued. It comprises more than 800 pages securely and attractively bound in cloth and comprehensively indexed. The volume includes numbers of the most important bulletins issued during the past two years and a comprehensive presentation of the work of the several divisions of the department for that period. Also there is special attention to the farmer's institute work of the department together with the most notable lectures delivered in these institutes the past year.

Acting Police Justice Harris has suspended judgment as to both the belligerents in the recent aldermanic fight between Alderman J. Sherwood Upchurch and Alderman Alexander Webb. Both submitted to the charge and pleaded provocation that unduly stirred quick tempers. In an animated discussion while the board was in session Upchurch declared that Webb was a liar and knew it. He apologized so far as the ward was concerned and when Webb, who called him for a personal apology, thought resulted.

The Wake county grand jury, in its final report to the court just filed, recommends that an educational building be erected adjacent to the present court house to provide ample quarters for the county superintendent of public instruction and the county board of education. The reason for this is set out to be that the court house is now over crowded with offices and the Wake educational department is in great need of adequate quarters.

O. C. Branch, Seaboard Air Line engineer, has been exonerated from the charge of slandering a young woman from New Hill. He was required to give a $100 bond two weeks ago, but the woman now comes forward and expresses satisfaction that the charge was untrue.

Governor Kitchin has offered a reward of $400 for the unknown fiend who criminally assaulted Mrs. M. E. Beck, early Sunday morning at her home in Rockingham, Richmond county. The reward is at the request of the Rockingham authorities who have also offered $500 reward, the crime being especially atrocious. The only clue is a cap the fellow left in the room and his tracks across a field through which he ran to get away. It is not even known whether he was negro or white man. Mrs. Beck is 60 years old.

The Raleigh Health League has started a crusade against the flies in Raleigh through the offering of $100 in prizes to persons who bring in the most dead flies during the next month. The prizes are $25, $10, $5 and $1 each. The flies are to be delivered to the city health officer.

J. E. Johnson, of Timmonsville, S. C., is to come to Raleigh and manage the finances of the Raleigh Y. M. C. A. building enterprise for the Association here until a regular secretary can be elected for the Association which is not to begin active association work until the proposed $75,000 building is erected. He is to give personal attention to the collection of the pledges to the building fund as they fall due.

The tangle over the election of a county superintendent of health for Wake county that led to the arbitrary appointment of Dr. J. L. McCullers as superintendent, has also developed the arrangement of a schedule of fees in the stead of a salary that could not be agreed upon. The schedule included, $4 for the inspection of each county institution; $5 for examination of a lunatic for commitment; $10 for post mortem examinations at the coroner's request; $1.50 for each visit to sick inmates of county institutions with fifty cents per mile mileage; $10 per case for obstetrical work and for surgical work fees fixed by the Wake Medical Society less one third. The proposed salary that failed of confirmation was $2,500.

More Cocaine Vendors Sentenced.

Three additional cocaine merchants were convicted and sentenced to the roads yesterday in Municipal court on the evidence of two young white men who as detectives are co-operating with the police in an effort to exterminate this dangerous class of evil-doers. The catalogue includes Will Carter, Otis Massey and Jesse Albright, all negroes. Each was convicted in two cases and given a term of 8 months on the streets in the first and prayer for judgment was continued in the second.

A. P. Waynick was fined $15 and the costs of the case for an assault with a deadly weapon. Lewis Pleasant and Herbert Moffitt, both white men, were fined $2.50 and the costs apiece for an affray.

High Class Work and Advertising in The Telegram A Combination Hard to Beat.

Mr. C. S. Paris, of the Paris-Glass Wall Paper & Decorating Co., returned yesterday from Ramseur, and other points where he has succeeded in closing some very nice contracts for high class interior decorations. Mr. Paris says that advertising in The Telegram, backed up by high class work of their firm, produces most satisfactory returns.

Women and Society

Junior Philathea Lawn Party.
The Junior Philathea Class of West Market Street church will give a lawn party on the church lawn Thursday evening, July 20. A cordial invitation is extended the public to come out and enjoy the evening and help the class realize a sum for the new Sunday school building debt.

Miss Sparger to Give Reception.
Miss Alma Sparger will be hostess to a number of young friends this morning from 10 to 12 o'clock at her home on Blandwood avenue. The entertainment will be tendered complimentary to Miss Beard, of Norfolk, and Miss Apple, of Winston-Salem, who are the house guests of Miss Mildred Stafford, on West Washington street.

Junior Civic Playground.
Beginning this afternoon the playground on North Greene street will be open to members of the Junior Civic League, with a lady in charge, between the hours of 3 and 6. Boys and girls who are not members are invited to join and enjoy the games under the instruction of those experienced in playground work.

That part of the public which is not satisfied to enjoy without abusing a privilege, having already made itself offensive, it has been decided to limit the use of the grounds strictly to members of the league and the other associations working in connection with it. Nurses, when accompanying white children will be allowed, otherwise the playground will be restricted to the use of white children only.

City Philatheas Meet.
Last night at the Reformed church was held a well attended meeting of the Philathea Union of the city. The members of the Philathea class of that church were the hostesses of the occasion, which extended through several hours of the evening and included interesting and enthusiastic discussions of the excellent work which the union accomplishing.

With Miss Myrtle Alderman presiding two minute reports of the work being done by the various classes of the city churches were given. These reports were very encouraging and showed that the Greensboro union, which contains 25 classes, stands well in the foremost rank with any in the State.

Following this three inspiring and beneficial talks were made to the Philatheas by young ladies who were sent as delegates to the Young People's Missionary Conference held recently in Asheville. Miss Emma Renn, of the Centenary M. E. Class, Miss Annie Davis, of the Westminster Presbyterian Class, Miss Annie Anderson, of the West Market M. E. church class, delivered these addresses.

Acting upon the inspiration of these talks an inter-denominational Mission Study Class was organized to be conducted by and for the young ladies of the union. Although the meeting last evening was not the regular time for electing officers, the president and treasurer of the union having left the city, it became necessary to fill these positions at once. Miss Emma Renn, of the Centenary Philathea class, is the newly-elected president, and Miss Sallie Phillips, of Forest Avenue Baptist, treasurer.

The meeting was held in the new class room just completed at the expense of the Reformed church Philatheas. The union expressed its thanks to these young ladies for their delightful entertainment and is proud of having such loyal members in their organization. A social hour followed the addresses and business and delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Miss Leone Battle has returned from Atlanta, Ga., and is visiting at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. L. A. Battle, on Tate street.

Misses Mary Vanstony and Selma Lambie left yesterday for a vacation of several weeks at Connelly's Springs.

Mrs. J. B. Ellington has gone for an extended visit to relatives and friends in Frankfort, Ky.

Mrs. H. W. Sinclair and Miss Fleida Johnson are visiting at Ocean View, Va.

Miss Bertha Jones has returned from a vacation at Mt. Airy White Sulphur Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tomlinson have gone to be visitors at Mt. Airy White Sulphur Springs for several days.

Miss Etna Ashton Kelly, of Richmond, is visiting Miss Callie Jeffreys, Mendenhall street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Tomlinson have returned to Greensboro, after a visit to the White Sulphur Springs at Mount Airy.

CHOLERA

Spread Has Been Effectively Checked Says The Government Officials.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, July 18.—Sergeant General Wyman believes that the precautionary measures that have been taken in dealing with the spread of cholera in this country are effective and that the cases will be confined to Swineburne Island, N. Y. He said that everything possible has been done, the situation is in hand and that the disease is now under control. The State department today wired all consuls to keep on the lookout for cholera in their provinces and at once report cases to the State department. The customs officials have also been instructed to be on the lookout.

BALTIMORE IS FAVORED.

Democrats in Middle West and Chicago Want National Convention Held There.

Chicago, July 18.—It is gossip in political circles here that the members of the Democratic State Committee will not exert themselves to bring the national convention of the party to Chicago, and that they are inclined to favor Baltimore among the other cities said to be aspirants. These other cities are listed here as St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver.

The business men stand ready to contribute liberally to have the convention in Chicago, but they have not received much encouragement among party leaders. It is said by those who have talked frankly that Baltimore is favored by many delegates from the Middle West and that, with the support of Eastern delegates, the convention might easily be swung to the Monumental City.

What political significance there may be in the indifference of Chicago Democrats regarding their own city for the convention is not made clear.

Delegates to District Conference.
The following will serve as delegates from Centenary M. E. church to the district conference which meets Thursday morning at Pleasant Garden: B. E. Smith, C. C. Hudson, T. A. Glascock, S. M. Bumpass, and Rev. D. M. Lisker. Alternates were selected as follows: William Love, H. W. Clendenin, B. E. Jones, and A. A. Hinkle.

The Legion of Honor.

After the vote for adding a second ten years to the duration of Bonaparte's consulship he created, May 19, the order of the Legion of Honor. This institution was soon followed by that of the new nobility. Thus, in a short space of time, the Concordat to tranquilize consciences and re-establish harmony in the church, the decree to recall the emigrants, the continuance of the consular power for ten years, by way of preparation for the consulship for life, and the possession of the empire, and the creation, in a country which had abolished all distinctions, of an order which was to engender prodigies, following closely on the heels of each other. The Bourbons, in reviving the abolished orders, were wise enough to preserve along with them the Legion of Honor.—Memoirs of Napoleon Bonaparte-Burriene.

GRUESOME STORY OF RALEIGH WOMAN'S DEATH IN RICHMOND

Richmond, July 18.—Lee Thaxton, son of a prominent contractor of Raleigh, N. C., arrived in Richmond yesterday and began an investigation to ascertain whether his sister, Miss Ola Thaxton, aged 23 years, who died here March 30, was given burial as the attending undertaker states, or whether the body was cut to pieces by students in the dissecting rooms of the University College of Medicine.

Undertaker John B. Biley says he received the body from the city home and buried it in the potters field at Oakwood cemetery. A record in Chief Health Officer Levy's office says the body was turned over to the medical college on May 10.

Miss Thaxton, who is described as a beautiful girl, with deep blue eyes and golden hair, came to Richmond in search of work, taking a position in the office of a tobacco factory. She became ill and died before relatives were notified. When letters ceased to reach Raleigh Mr. Thaxton concluded to investigate and found his sister had been dead these many weeks. He promises sensational developments if the matter is not satisfactorily explained.

FACES ARE ALTERED BY FOOD

Specialists Say That the Contours Are Changed From Plain to Pretty, or Vice Versa.

You can, according to the opinion of an American expert, alter your children's features by varying their food.

If your little daughter, for instance, has too heavy a face, too massive a chin, and you are afraid that she will grow up unprepossessing, cease to give her foods with starch in them, and she will become dainty and graceful.

Should she, on the other hand, be too slender of feature, with a thin chin, you can develop rounded curves by giving her more starch than she has been having.

"Man is what he eats," says this expert, and he then mentions such divergences from the normal facial type as "starch chin," "onion chin," "tea drinker's teeth," "full-tipped sugar mouth" and "potato lip." These divergences, he says, are caused by the articles of diet named.

"The food eaten makes an enormous difference in people's appearance," a Bond street beauty doctor who has had several years' hospital experience, said, "and though it cannot alter the framework of the adult face it can that of young children while their bones are still growing.

"The child who has too much starch develops puffy flesh all over the face, which then appears too massive.

"Such a child should be given more nitrogenous food, such as meat and green vegetables containing the proper mineral salts for building up strong, well-shaped bones, and much less starchy food, such as rice, potatoes or white bread.

"Such vegetables are spinach, spring cabbage, turnip tops, celery or carrots. By their action better muscular tissues are built up over stronger bones, and the result is alert, dainty features.

"If, however, the face is too thin, more starch should be given, as well as proteids and the vegetables I have named, and then the rounded contour so necessary to beauty will be built up."

Who is Your Favorite Baseball Player?

Do You Know His Complete Record?

Gainor, Tigers' New First Sacker

Besides Grabbing All Pegs and Hits Coming His Way, He Is Batting Like a Streak

You can have his complete record up to and including the 1910 playing season and the records of all other players in any of the organized leagues. All you have to do is to procure a copy of "Facts for Fans," which you can only get from the Greensboro Telegram. Elsewhere in this paper you will find a coupon which when properly filled out, together with 11 other coupons will entitle you to one copy of "Facts for Fans," giving a complete record of all baseball happenings, rules, individual averages, team averages, and most any other information you may desire.

What You Have to Do:

Begin with today's coupon and save one each day until you have 12 consecutive numbers. Present these at the office or mail them in (when mailing send two cent stamp for postage), or for ONE NEW SUBSCRIBER AND ONE COUPON you may have one of these little books full of interesting information.

If you don't want to take the trouble to save 12 of the coupons, bring in a new subscriber somebody who is not now taking the paper, and one coupon. We don't require that you bring in any money for the subscription but if the subscriber will pay you in advance we will allow you, in addition to the copy of "Facts for Fans", a commission of 10 per cent. on the amount paid. You will find the subscription price on page 2.

Force of Habit

On his way home that evening Brill unconsciously felt several times the crackling papers in his pocket. When he did so he swelled out his chest and remembered how relieved and happy and cheerful he was. For the first time since his marriage, which was six years before, Brill was entirely out of debt. He had that day paid the last note the bank held against him.

All those six years he and Ida had been paying for the house. They had bought it to start housekeeping in, in bold defiance of the advice of their elders, who bemoaned their loading themselves with debt at the very outset of their married life. If they wanted to do such a crazy thing, was the general cry, why didn't they go into it more moderately? The idea of two persons with their incomes purchasing a $5,000 place when one costing $1,200 would have suited their resources so much better!

Their relatives rehearsed the various calamities which might follow their rash venture. If John didn't die he might lose his job and what if either of them should have a long and lingering illness? Besides, both John and Ida were pleasure loving and never in the world would have the moral courage to make the necessary sacrifices.

In the first enthusiasm of having such a nice house to live in the debt did not loom ominous.

"Why," Ida said, gayly, "it's so perfectly splendid, having this instead of a stuffy four-room flat like everybody else has that I shan't mind giving up things a bit!"

That was at first. When days followed days they began to look at each other seriously over the papers covered with figures. They loved the theater and now they had to give it up. In fact they had to give up almost everything they had enjoyed, even their friends. If their friends entertained them it meant that they must entertain in return.

Life resolved itself into a grim struggle to make their payments. Ida's clothes got shabby and Brill learned to walk by a cigar case and keep his eyes straight ahead. They learned to stay at home evening after evening and they took to reading aloud as a diversion and to the multiplication table and long division as a necessity. So it had been a long, hard struggle and now Brill was glad it was ended.

"It seems queer," he said at dinner that night for the dozesome time, "to think that it's all over—that we haven't got to scrimping and pinch and save money for anything special! We can have a better time now!"

"We'll enjoy life," Ida said dreamily, resting her chin on her clasped hands. "Think of all the things we can do!"

"Well, what shall we do?" asked Brill.

His wife regarded him with a puzzled look. "Why, I don't know," she said, slowly. "All the things we've wanted to and couldn't since we were married, I suppose. And it will be fine not to have the worry."

They stayed at home that evening, stfully reading and discussing the fact that they were out of debt and removed from the necessity of scrimping. When Brill started downtown in the morning he remembered to throw out his chest as he descended the front steps, for did he not own his home and have his full salary to spend?

They had a fine time for a while discussing the treats they would have. They did go to the theater and they bought some new clothes and Ida joined a literary club. But after a while Brill grew restless.

"I don't know what's the matter with me," he said. "I guess it's just nerves. I don't feel right. Something seems wrong somehow."

"There doesn't seem much to do," his wife agreed. "I can't get up an interest in anything."

They grew silent and abstracted. Brill developed a habit of idly making marks with his pencil on the blank pad of paper on which they had done their figuring during the past year.

One night he came home late to dinner a little breathless, but with a light in his eye. He spoke rapidly and almost defiantly.

"I suppose you'll be furious at me," he said, "but I ran across a good investment where property is bound to go up—and I've bought a small store building for $7,000 with six years to pay the mortgage and—"

"That's splendid!" interrupted his wife, excitedly. "We can do it just as well as not! I've thought of a new way to cut down our expenses and I'm dying to try it! It'll be fun to plan again and feel that we're really doing something!"

"Well," said her relieved husband, as he reached for the pad of paper. "It does seem to give one something to live for to be honestly in debt again and have to fight to get out!"

According to Scripture. Mother came with slow and silent step from the sick room and said to little Robert, "Your little baby brother is very ill, Robert, dear, and I am afraid he will die."

"Well, mamma, if he does die he won't go to the bad place."

"Why, Robert, what makes you say that?"

"Oh, I know! You see, he can't, mamma, 'cause he ain't got no teeth to gnash!"—Judge.

DRESSES FOR YOUNG GIRLS

Charming Costumes Are Made Up in Woolens or Cottons—Lighter Shades Favored.

Simple little dresses these, that may be made up in woolens or cottons. The first would look very charming made up in grey cashmere and silk of a slightly darker shade; the cashmere part of skirt is slightly eased into a deep band of silk at lower part; the bodice is out kimono, and is of cashmere, silk being used for the lower part, which with the plastron and small yoke are cut in one; silk bands finish the three-quarter sleeves and buttons trim both plastron and sleeve bands.

Materials required: Three yards cashmere 46 inches wide, 3 yards silk 22 inches wide, 1 1/2 dozen buttons.

The costume on the right is in blue poplinette; the skirt is slightly eased in at the waist and at knees is trimmed with a band of soft satin.

Here, too, the bodice is cut Magyar; it has a narrow panel of material carried down the center and continued over the band of satin in skirt; it is trimmed at each end with buttons. The collar and elbow bands are of satin.

Materials required: Four yards 44 inches wide, 1 1/2 yards silk 22 inches wide, 8 buttons.

NEW NOTIONS IN FACE VEILS

Flirt Nets, Rose-Point Laces, Chantilly, Lierre Among Materials Most Favored.

Veils are a serious item in dress now, for all good ones are expensive and every web is perishable. Then fashion is sacrificing beauty to novelty, so it requires a good deal of a search sometimes for the becoming thing.

Flirt nets, rose-point lace, chantilly, lierre and applique and embroidered lace nets are the names of some of the fabrics used for the made-up veils. These are all bordered at the bottom and at the ends, and are draped curtain fashion about the brims of the larger hats.

The mesh veils, which are worn closely over the face and under the chin, are often in two colors, a black web over a flesh tint producing a very becoming complexion effect. Blue net, heavily embroidered in black, is a French effect of considerable smartness, while there are some black nets with edges in Bulgarian embroidery—this in the richest colors—which are dashing if nothing else.

The pale brownish cream, called champagne, will be a tint much used with light straw hats, but for midsummer the popular veil will be of white net, dotted, figured or plain, and with a lace edge.

DOLL WORKBAGS THE LATEST

Quaint Affairs Topped With Head of Doll Dressed in Same Material as Bag.

Quaint doll workbags are now popular. These have the ordinary round bottom of pasteboard, to which the bag is sewed in the usual way.

Fastened to one side of the top, so as not to interfere with the drawing string, is the head of a doll, dressed in a big bonnet and neckpiece made of the material of the bag.

When finished the bag looks like a maiden of Civil war times; sometimes narrow pinked ruffles are added to the outside of the bag to increase the resemblance.

Choose a dark old-fashioned silk or India print and make the bonnet in poke shape, with long, pointed lappets around the neck and falling half way down the bag.

A similar bag could be made from a gay bandanna handkerchief with turbaned head of the black doll. Put a kerchief around the neck; at one side of the bag might be a checked apron.

Shirtwaists Still Here.

Separate blouses are essential to comfort this year, and while the never-ending cry continues to be heard that white shirtwaists are out of fashion, still one realizes that it is necessary to include at least one smart white waist in the wardrobe. Waists to match the skirt in color, even if not in material, are much more generally becoming, but the elaborate white waist is always smart and attractive.

Just apply Hancock Sulphur Compound to the affected spots and it will stop the itching at once, and cure the trouble permanently. One 50c bottle will cure that prevalent trouble, Common Itch. Nothing cures skin troubles so quickly as Hancock Sulphur Compound. To testify the complexion and remove black heads and pimples, use Hancock Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Kent, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my neck, it would burn and itch. I was afraid it might be of a cancerous nature. I used different preparations, but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." JUST Rheumacide

IT CURES
Rheumatism and Blood Diseases
The cause of rheumatism is excess of acid in the blood. To cure rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with ointments and liniments may ease the pain, but they will not cure the disease. Rheumacide removes the cause, gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. STRONG ARRAIGNMENT OF ADMINISTRATION

Philadelphia North American, a Republican Newspaper, Publishes Strong Indictments of President Taft And His Administration.

(By ANGUS McSWEEN.)

Washington, July 18.—In the amazing accumulation of charges and evidence against the administration, including the President and his chief advisers, to be the subjects of active investigation this week by committees of the House of Representatives, one circumstance stands forth with startling prominence. It is that the investigations are not begun to prove the existence of evil in the administration nor the efforts of the President and members of his cabinet to serve special privilege by a consistent policy in opposition to the interest of the public. The evil and the efforts are both clearly established.

The investigating committees are seeking only to determine the extent of the evil and the particular special interests that have been the beneficiaries. This is a situation the like of which was never even approached in the history of the government. The administration is without defenders, and the hope of the President's friends is that nothing worse may be proved against him than is already known.

La Follette Presented Facts.

The most terrific arraignment of a President ever heard in the Senate was that of last Thursday, when Senator La Follette reviewed the record of this administration. The attack obtained its tremendous force and strength not from any opinions expressed by the Senator from Wisconsin, but from the facts and circumstances which he laid before the Senate and the country, and which represented with absolute fidelity to truth the activities of the President and his advisers since March 4, 1908.

In the ordinary sense, the speech was not an attack upon the President. It was merely a presentation of facts, for which the President alone is responsible. He made the record, and Senator La Follette merely called attention to it.

There is to be no reply to La Follette, so far as any one has been able to ascertain. The most enthusiastic defender of special privilege and the President, including Burton of Ohio, have no desire to controvert established facts.

They know as well as any one else that the record can not fail to arouse the indignation of all men of understanding, and their only hope is that a great number of people will not understand it, or will be so swayed by party feeling and prejudice as to refuse to admit its force or even to consider it.

Administration to Blame.

So it is with the charges that are producing so many investigations by the House committees. They are not charges brought against the President and his advisers by their enemies or political opponents. They are charges resulting from the deliberate activities of the administration itself, activities which very plainly show that the administration has, with unvarying consistency, refused to pursue a policy intended to advance or even protect the public interests.

President Taft has himself made the enforcement of the pure-food law and the protection of the lives and health of the masses an issue between himself and the people by countenancing so cheap and ridiculous a conspiracy as that which seeks to remove Doctor Wiley from the head of the bureau of chemistry in the Department of Agriculture in order that the food dopers and drug poisoners may be able to dispose of their harmful wares.

It is not because there is opposition to President Taft that a committee is looking into the scandal caused by the President's own action in giving special rights to resource-grabbing combinations in Alaska. In this case the President's own conduct is being examined and not any accusations against him. The committee knows what he has done, and is desirous of finding out why he did it and who are the real beneficiaries.

So, too, the investigation of Attorney General Wickersham's protection of criminals in Alaska and his activities in behalf of the interests which are looting public property there is not because of charges against the attorney general, but because of established circumstances which are of record and which the attorney general cannot even deny.

Evidence is Conclusive.

The amazing and deplorable situation is due entirely to the accumulation of evidence absolutely conclusive in showing that the administration has added its influence and power for evil to that of the predatory combinations.

Feeling against the administration has grown tremendously in the last three days. On Thursday, when Senator La Follette made his speech in the Senate setting forth the administration's record, many persons believed that the speech would hurt Senator La Follette politically more than it would hurt the President. But on that very day it became known that the administration was plotting to remove Doctor Wiley as the administrator of the pure food law, and the record of Attorney General Wickersham's activities in behalf of the criminals in the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaskan combination was presented to the House judiciary committee.

It is obvious that these revelations had nothing whatever to do with Senator La Follette's speech or the speech with them. But the effect was to make every fact and circumstance to which Senator La Follette had called attention stand out with greater clearness and with additional force.

That no defense of the administration is attempted adds to the significance of the situation. There are denials, but they are denials which do not attempt to defend. For example, it is merely said the President was not aware of the conspiracy against Doctor Wiley. There is denial from the attorney general that he has neglected to protect the public interests in Alaska. There is denial, too, that the midnight transfer of public property on Controller bay has not yet brought any harm to the public interest, although the transfer itself and the surreptitious manner in which it was made are all admitted.

May Not Be Re-nominated.

The suggestion of the Taft supporters that none of this will affect the President's political future is obviously absurd. The opinion is growing here that he will not be re-nominated because the obvious impossibility of his re-election would make his nomination equivalent to surrender by the Republican party and would involve the throwing away of many local and State offices which may be saved with another candidate.

President Taft's friends no longer hope that the passage of the reciprocity bill next Saturday will do him any good. They know the measure is like every other administration measure that Congress has been asked to consider, a cheat and a sham. They know the only way in which it could have been transformed into anything else was to adopt the amendments proposed by the progressives.—Philadelphia North American.

Honest Medicines Versus Fakes.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the Pure Food and Drugs law in its relation to Prepared Medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and Foley's Kidney Pills, both of which are true medicines carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds and affections of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown persons, and it retains today its pre-eminence above all other preparations of its kind. Foley Kidney Pills are equally effective and meritorious. Howard Gardner.

Iredell Gains More Than Million Dollars In Assessments.

Statesville, July 18.—The approximate valuation of real and personal property in Iredell by this year's assessment is $9,453,621, as against $8,168,217 last year a gain of $1,285,404. These figures may be slightly changed by changes made yesterday, but they are approximately correct.

The board of equalization yesterday wrestled with the property assessment, with the result that an increase in the valuation of land was made in the townships of Barringer, Bethany, Chambersburg, Cool Springs, Davidson, Eagle Mills, New Hope, Sharpesburg and Turnersburg; decreases were made in Concord, Fallstown and Olin, while Coddle Creek, Shiloh, Statesville and Union Grove were allowed to stand.

The increases range from 10 cents to 72 cents the acre, while the decreases were from $1.70 in Concord to 37 cents in Olin. The average land valuation for the county will be a little more than $1 in excess of last year, which was $7.07.

Kill More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. They're in air, water, dust, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c. at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

SAYINGS OF "OLD ED HOWE"

Pertinent Points That Lesser Paraphraser Will Long Hold in Their Memories.

When E. H. Howe recently resigned the editorship of the Atchison (Kan.) Globe to get away from the newspaper grind, as he expressed it, to become a plain country farmer, other newspapers voiced their astonishment and regrets. As an editor Mr. Howe made somewhat of a reputation for himself and his literary efforts were well read and enjoyed and other publications helped themselves to them liberally.

Between planting, hoeing, trucking and cultivating on Potato Hill farm, near Atchison, Mr. Howe has somehow found time during the past month or so to start a new monthly magazine, to write a play and to prepare a volume of short paragraphs which is about to be published under the title of "Country Sayings." Here are a few of the paragraphs selected at random: A woman is as old as she looks before breakfast.

Families with babies and families without babies are so sorry for each other. Nearly every unsuccessful man we ever met was a good billiard player. If you are confidential terms with almost any family you discover they are terribly hard up.

Every town has its men who take pleasure in running after other men's hats when they blow off.

Four Atchison sisters have worn the same dress to be married in. This is the right way to treat a father.

A girl should be given an allowance every week, if it is not more than 50 cents. It will teach her how to handle the great sums entrusted to her care when she marries.

If you want to make a man very angry get some one to pray for him. One of the griefs of my life is that when I drive vagrant dogs run after me and bark and I have never been able to hit one of them with the whip, although I always try.

WINE TAKES PLACE OF WATER

Cheaper Than the Furnishing of Nature Is Intoxicant in the South-east Corner of Europe.

Imagine living in a place where wine is as cheap and more plentiful than water, where water is used for washing purposes only, and when you want to quench your thirst you go to the nearest wine cask and simply help yourself. There is no charge.

Down in the southeast corner of Europe—in Roumania and Bulgaria—there are such places. The plain folk down there live in villages—there are no isolated farms between towns—and in the morning men, women and children troop out into the fields to work from sunrise up to sundown. There is a little vineyard on almost every farm. In the autumn the grapes are pressed, the wine is made and it is stored in the cellar. When you are thirsty you take a flagon and fill it and drink. It is just the same as drinking at a public drinking fountain after you become accustomed to it.

The reason why nobody thinks of drinking water is for the simple reason that water is too precious. It has to be hauled from the town pump or some hillside spring, and there is enough of it to be carried for washing dishes and so on, but not for a beverage, particularly in winter, when the brooks are frozen over, and then it is too much trouble to get water.

TIGHT COLLAR AND DEATH

Danger of Neckwear That Confines Exemplified in Demise of New York Woman.

The man or woman who wears a tight fitting collar will find a lesson with a moral in the death of Rose Degeran, a New York woman. She was strangled in her sleep by the tight collar she was wearing at the time. Miss Degeran was a professional cook. On the afternoon of her death she was taking a few minutes' rest on the sofa and, feeling rather tired, she dozed off and was soon sleeping soundly.

An hour or so later, when every effort to rouse her had failed, a doctor was sent for in alarm. Dr. Ross of the New York hospital responded and pronounced her dead. She had died easily and painlessly in her sleep, strangled to death because her collar was too tight. In turning her head to her sleep she had unconsciously increased the tightness of the collar on her throat. This promptly stopped the circulation of the blood to the brain, taking her from a state of sleep into one of insensibility. As the tight collar also prevented respiration she slowly strangled to death, powerless to save herself.

HANES SUCCEEDS CAPTAIN HENRY

Salisbury, July 18.—Civil Engineer S. B. Hanes of Winston-Salem, takes the place of the late Capt. R. P. Henry as chief engineer of the surveying corps of the Salisbury to Monroe railroad. Capt. Hanes, who was employed by President N. B. McCaless, president of the new road, came to Salisbury yesterday, stopping at the Empire Hotel. Early this morning in company with Mr. McCaless he left for Mt. Pleasant to take up the work where Capt. Henry ceased his labor the day he was fatally injured. Capt. Hanes will work to Mt. Pleasant and then return over the route as far as Faith, the survey from this point not having been fully completed. He will then continue the work on toward Monroe, and it is hoped to have the survey finished within a few months. Captain Hanes is originally from Mocksville and has been in the engineering service on a road in Virginia and was with the corps of engineers on the Southbound and thoroughly understands his business. Young Patrick Henry, son of Capt. Henry, who was with his father, has been retained by President McCaless and will continue with the surveying corps.

President McCaless stated last night to the writer that in a very short time the route to Faith will be chosen, three different lines having been run when the work of grading will be commenced. He stated positively that unless hindered by something unforeseen throwing dirt on the road will begin by September 1. He has already purchased a lot of tools for this work. Hands will be placed at a number of points between Salisbury and Faith and the work pushed to completion as soon as possible.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrellson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of, for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

Dorkins—Why, I got this umbrella in a very peculiar way—I bought it.—Pathfinder.

Kidney Diseases Are Curable under certain conditions. The right medicine must be taken before the disease has progressed too far. Mr. Perry A. Pitman, Dale, Tex., says: "I was down in bed for four months with kidney and bladder trouble and gall stones. One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy cured me well and sound." Ask for it. ANGRY AUTOIST GAVE CAR AWAY

Special to Telegram.

Hammond, Ind., July 18.—George Hancock, a 12-year-old boy, was presented with a $2,000 touring car by an exasperated New York transcontinental auto tourist who met with an accident near the farm owned by the boy's father yesterday. While descending a hill near the farm the New Yorker, who was en route to Chicago, lost control of the machine and landed in a ditch. After young Hancock had helped the auto man out of the ditch he announced that he would be glad to give the machine away, and the lad at once said, "Give it to me." "Take the d-d thing, then," exclaimed the exasperated autoist. He then hired the boy to drive him to the nearest station, where he boarded a train for Chicago. Young Hancock sold the machine for a neat sum to a local dealer and will use the money in procuring a college education.

CHARLOTTE WON SLUGGING MATCH FROM PATRIOTS

Charlotte, July 18.—Charlotte again trimmed the Patriots in a slugging match, although it was a spectacular battle. Walters and Bauswine were tapped up lively and many extra base hits featured. Fuller was the star stickler, his three mighty liners coming at the right time. Coutts and McMillan, for the locals, held up the Hornets' end of stick work in great fashion. Charlotte's outfielders hit for a total of seventeen bases.

Score: R. H. E.
Greensboro 9 9 2
Charlotte 10 14 2

RED SOX BUNCHED HITS AND WON IN EASY STYLE

Anderson, July 18.—Bunched hits by the Spartans took the game from the locals this afternoon 7 to 2. Four hits, a sacrifice and a hit batsman gave the visitors four in the first. An error, two sacrifices, a single, and a wild pitch added two in the third. Three singles in the seventh gave the Red Sox their last run. The locals made two in the fourth on an error, a single, two stolen bases, and two singles.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Spartanburg 402 000 100—7 7 1
Anderson 000 200 000—2 7 4

TWINS SHUT OUT COTTON SPINNERS

Winston-Salem, July 18.—By opportune hitting and some exceptional fielding the Twins enabled Boyle to score a shut-out against Greenville of 8 to 0. Cashion and Boyle yielded the same number of hits, but Cashion gave them up at unseemly times and walked and hit batsmen in awkward moments.

The fielding of both teams was out of the ordinary. Clancy and Gates in the infield together with O'Halloran played some of the fastest ball seen here this season, it being impossible to get one through with a man on third. Sharpe put up a fine exhibition at second for the visitors. The catching of Dailey was excellent and his pegging deadly.

Sharpe led in the number of hits, four out of five times up and two of them doubles. Goodman got three singles and so did Tagner. Brockman for the Twins hit safely three times, but the triple of Schumaker with two on, and the double of Boyle with three on were the hitting features. The Twins scored in the first frame, in the third and eighth. In three innings the Spinners had men caught at the plate, and in all had ten men left on bases to the Twins four, but were prevented from scoring by the tightest fielding in close places seen here this season.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Greenville 000 000—0 12 1
Winston-Salem 014 000 03x—8 12 2
Batteries: Cashion and Kite; Boyle and Dailey.

POPULATION CENTER MOVES WESTWARD

Washington, July 18.—The center of population of the United States is 414 miles south of Unionville, Monroe county, Ind., according to a census bureau announcement yesterday. Since 1900, when it was six miles southeast of Columbus, Indiana, it has moved 31 miles westward and seven-tenths of a mile northward. The westward movement was more than twice that of the 1890-1900 decade. This acceleration of the westward movement is attributed by census bureau officials to the growth of the Pacific and southwestern states.

The geographical center of the United States is in northern Kansas so that the center of population, therefore, is about 550 miles east of the geographical center of the country.

Winston here tomorrow.

Bad crimp in our pennant aspirations.

Too soon to give up entirely, but that rag is getting farther away.

Wonder if Greenville will ever get another game. Tommy Stouch didn't come quite soon enough.

Charlotte having worsted the heretofore invincible Dr. Walters, the fans will proceed to crow awhile.

And both of the games were lost by a margin of one run. Errors contributed in both games to the defeat of the Patriots and victory of the Hornets.

Tommy Stouch is expected to take charge of the Greenville team when it gets back home tomorrow. Dick Smith will be asked to remain on the team.

Maybe Greenville will get out of the cellar but that is about all the team can look forward to. The last few games they have been going toward the farthest subterranean depths.

The team will return home tomorrow, and Clancy will bring his tribe of Twins over for three games. Three battles royal may be expected, and they will be about the best games to be seen here this season. If Greensboro can come off victor in the series we can still entertain hopes of winning the rag.

Doak, Loman and Doyle were the fielding stars for the visitors with Carroll running a close second. Doak got a foul over the fence in his bare hand, Lowman speared a drive that looked good for the circuit. Doyle stabbed one behind first base and got his man at the initial corner, while Carroll cavorted all over short, left and center, taking in everything that the others couldn't handle.—Charlotte Chronicle.

IT BEGINS WHEN ONE WAKES UP AT 2 IN THE MORNING.

Everyone Else is Asleep, You Are Helpless and Isolated and the House is Full of Strange Noises.

Did you ever wake up at some unknown hour and listen for the clock to strike and experience a great sense of relief that it counted four instead of two? You know then that things would be stirring before long; that the milk wagons would soon be going past, and that you wouldn't remain the only person awake west of New York. It is insisted that the first three hours of sleep are the soundest of all. However that may be, it certainly is a fact that if you get to sleep at all you rarely awaken before two o'clock. Besides, the early part of the night isn't particularly lonesome. You know that people are getting home from the theaters and that up to say, one o'clock, the town is just settling down to sleep. But when some noise, or what you ate at dinner, arouses you to hear the clock strike two, you are overwhelmed by the feeling of your own helplessness and isolation. Nobody else for miles around; you feel quite sure, can be awake for any good purpose.

The house is full of curious creaks and groans. What is that strange noise in the next room? It must be the window shade flapping in the wind. Of course, it must be. Still, it might be somebody moving ever so stealthily. You lie perfectly quiet and listen, straining your eardrums for some peculiarity of the sound that will settle its character.

Yes, it is the window shade. But now comes a crash from the kitchen—a distinct crash; no trick of the imagination. Did you lock the kitchen window before you went to bed? You think you did, but a haunting doubt comes over you. Maybe it was the cat. But wasn't the cat put down cellar? Possibly the cellar door wasn't quite latched. The cat might have got back into the kitchen.

Now one of the children sneezes—sneezes repeatedly. He didn't seem to have any cold when he went to bed. Perhaps he has kicked the clothes off. You would better go see. No, he is covered up. Why should he have sneezed? Can he be coming down with pneumonia, or scarlet fever, or something? A good many serious diseases begin with a bad cold. Perhaps he is feverish. You feel his hands. They do feel hot—or are you own cold? You give it up and go back to bed. Could you get the doctor if you needed him? You strain to listen for more sneezes or for the restlessness that betrays a fever. No, there isn't anything.

Once more the clock strikes—one, two, three. Only three. If it were only four morning would be near. You are worn to a frazzle by this time. You know you never can get to sleep again, and the worst of it is that you don't dare thrash around, as you would like to for fear you might awaken your wife. Thank goodness, she has slept through all these horrors. You start to counting, get to 47, and then forget to go on in the strain of listening for more noises. You are on the verge of despair. Can it be that the clock is striking again? Yes, seven, and it's morning. You had dozed off, after all.

Isn't morning great? And isn't the hour from two to three the damndest of all the 24?—Kansas City Times.

GOVERNOR KITCHIN TO ANSWER CRITICS

Raleigh, July 18.—It is learned that Governor Kitchin is preparing an extended answer to the attack made on him through the M. L. Misenheimer letter, the J. A. Lockhart letter in the Raleigh morning paper Sunday, and the editorial criticisms on the governor in that connection by Editor Daniels, of the Raleigh morning paper, the three attacking the governor especially on his attitude to trust legislation by insisting that he made the strongest sort of campaign pledges that he would make use his influence for the most effective anti-trust legislation, his critics now claiming that he failed to keep these pledges.

It is understood that the governor will review his official record with a view to refuting the attack and show that his course has been in accord with the expressed will of the people. The card from the governor is awaited with the keenest interest and is expected to mark an epoch in the impending senatorial campaign.

SITE SELECTED FOR GREENE MONUMENT

Yesterday morning a deed was recorded transferring from the Guilford Battle Ground Company to the United States of America a site 100 feet square on Guilford battlefield for the erection of the $30,000 monument to General Nathaniel Greene, who commanded the American forces in this great battle. The site selected for the monument is about 100 feet southeast of the Nash monument. It is understood that the government will erect the monument during this year and the unveiling exercises will take place at the Fourth of July celebration in 1912.

SMITH STANDS PAT.

Atlanta, July 18.—Governor Hoke Smith is "standing pat" on the senatorial situation. He has expressed publicly his regret that Senator Terrell did not see fit to remain in office a little longer. But Governor Smith shows no intention of going to the senate himself now. He is busy here on financial and educational questions of the state.
